

Una Paloma Blanca

Tuesday, 21 March 2006

This was my cover (better, I thought) of the George Baker Selection original Dutch song.
I heard it on holiday in Europe, loved it and did a version adding the "stepping" bass line and a few other bits.
Actually it's not to my musical taste at all but it was huge.
When Gary Gilmore was executed, he chose this as his last song.
Funnily enough, having since experienced prison, I can now understand the line "no-one can take my freedom away".