

Which top, key, significant music executive...

Tuesday, 23 May 2006

had his office call to change his home address because he "didn't seem to be getting his Tipsheet each week"?

When told we didn't publish any more, back came the answer "but he keeps getting people telling him about tracks and stories in The Tip Sheet".

We notified him that the board appears to have taken over all past functions both with up to date rumours and information and via Listen Here, MySpace and other sites, fulfilling the CD role.

And suggested he let his A&R people know so that future discoveries like ORSON don't get missed after we tip them.

Since he's a personal friend, JK wrote him a private letter... to his new home address (and is hoping for an invitation to dinner)!
