

The new Harry Potter film

Monday, 16 July 2007

Far and away the best yet.

In fact, the only Potter movie I've really liked.

I'm not keen on films of my much loved novels. I like to retain my own imagination in my mind. Films produce images that can never afterwards be erased.

But The Order Of The Phoenix was a terrific watch in its own right. Imelda Staunton, as expected, is magnificent. Radcliffe has finally become an actor. The effects are stunning. The music is great.

Mind you, the next book (Half Blood Prince) is going to be hell to film.

Very dark, especially the scenes at the end...