Harry Potter and the Cursed Child

Sunday, 12 March 2017

Just spent the evening at this thoroughly enjoyable event (tickets going for 9,860 quid). JK Rowling is so terrific; her influence shows in every note and every moment.

Some absolutely spectacular theatre; great effects; splendid sound and music (Imogen Heap who knew?!!) - a definite smash of a show (well, 2 shows starting at 2.00 finished just now 10.30).

In between dinner at Patara Greek Street; lovely friendly Thai restaurant; very good food, super staff.

And one of the stars of The Pink Marble Egg is in the Potter - Andrew McDonald. Karma. Simply associate with JK and you end up in the West End or on Broadway!