

Well, with the boards STILL down... JK posts on Top of the Pops, Miss Marple, Superbowl...

A strange Top of the Pops trying to be significant with many tracks the viewer wants to hear and see please NOT included.

Orson were fine but I don't think they are the future of music.

Richard Bacon is so awful and someone told him not to shave and to wear jeans in order to appear indie.

Miss Marple - beautifully done but so "adapted" - yet those of us who knew the basic plot knew miles ahead Phil D did it.

And will they NOT rush the credits at 100 miles per hour when the main point of this version is the c list guest stars concealed like bodies amongst the words?

I never thought I'd survive the entire Superbowl but it was a great game and I found myself shouting at the TV screen

"he's going to go all the way" when he caught the ball and started running on his 75 yard touchdown.

And the meal I had Saturday...

well perhaps this is neither the place nor the time.
