

Some executives are more impressive than others...

Thursday, 16 February 2006

We tend to be full of admiration when we get calls SECONDS after Deep Throat posts or message board threads go up. It shows that not only are they on the ball but they have a team of efficient informants. And you know what... at the end of the day, they are the executives who deservedly do very well!