The changing face of our industry

Thursday, 12 October 2006

I predict next year we'll see an explosion of Internet TV and radio stations, much like the 60's era of Pirate Radio, with talented (and untalented) people being able to start their own broadcast units.

Most, of course, will be dreadful and ignored but one or two will be brilliant and will change everything in music and entertainment.

Love it. Excited by it. Get ready for it.
