

The Killing 2 - most extraordinary television.

Sunday, 18 December 2011

I cannot praise this too highly.

Magnificent on every level with just about every area perfect. But the Direction, camera work and music were unique. One shot - the police running down the stairs in a bunker - cut to the Minister running up the back stairs in the political offices - illustrated how minute the attention to detail was throughout.

Virtually a masterclass in how to make great TV. Everyone involved must be bursting with pride.