

Calvary

Saturday, 12 April 2014

I think the McDonagh brothers are quite superb - the best film makers so far this century, with In Bruges and The Guard my personal favourite movies.

Calvary is a terrific film - but I didn't enjoy it as much.

The balance is slightly wrong. Not enough of the dark humour.

Still, it could win the Best Movie Oscar and the utterly superb Brendan Gleeson could well get the Best Actor Oscar that he SHOULD have won for The Guard.

It's the kind of film that leaves you unable to move from your seat.
